EQUAL ENERGY EXCHANGE

Equal Energy Exchange is the pure synergy between giving and receiving.

The essence of equal energy depends not on physical money or even resources but is based on a sacred exchange between two beings of equal energy.

This is the notion of giving and receiving. In every transaction or exchange, we are giving and receiving energy.

If there is no energy within the exchange, if the energy is not coming from the heart and infused with pure intent, then the exchange itself has no life, and no integrity. It is therefore dead.

A DEAD ECONOMY

Our current economy is a reflection of our EGO minds. What we call "inflation" is simply a projection of the inflation of our EGOs - our control, our greed, our arrogance, and our pride. Inflation is when goods and services are inflated in price, due to an illusionary shortage of such items. We created the concept of "debt" and "lack" as a reflection of our own human consciousness. Debt itself is based on the idea that we could owe something more than what we have to give, which shows the arrogance of the human mind.

Lack consciousness was an illusion placed within our consciousness that says, "there is not enough!". The very nature of this concept goes against all Universal Laws. Everything in Creation is made of energy, and energy is infinite. Source energy is infinite, and we are infinite. To create an idea that the Universe, the God within everything and everyone, could ever lack, is simply a projection of our minds.

A DEAD ECONOMY

Within this matrix we feel unworthy and separated. Because of this, we seek to "own" things. We attempt to fill our spiritual void with things and money. Money is a symbol of energy; however, it has been used to create lack where organically, there is none. Our economy is therefore built on a dead energy, one that is lacking in spirit, love, and intention.

Our economy is not based on equal energy exchange. For example: to purchase a bottle of water is a crime against humanity. Water is free from the Earth. Even our salt bodies of water can easily be filtered into fresh, pure drinking water. To monetize and put a price on a resource which is freely provided by our host is absolutely absurd. The exchange is in no way equal, because one party decided to "own" something that is not theirs to own, and then in turn has charged money from a being who should have free access to such a resource. This is a dead energy exchange.

OUR VISION

Our vision is to return to an economy of pure energy exchange. Our greatest assets are what we give from the heart. A gift of love, of our time, effort, service, support, and creations.

If we were to return to an economy based on love, there would never be a shortage or lack of anything. Equal energy exchange is the purity of intent to give what you have to another who receives in gratitude and provides something to meet your need. This is LOVE. This is equal energy exchange. For example: If I am in need of wood to keep my family warm for the winter, but I do not have the funds to acquire this wood, I can offer to dedicate my time chopping wood for someone who has the land and access to such wood. I have now given my love to them to keep their family warm, and in return I am blessed with wood for my family. The key here is that each party is seeking to support and take care of the other, in the true nature of understanding that we are all one.

Business would no longer be based on money, greed, power, control, etc. but would be based on mutual giving/receiving, gratitude & love. We are returning to the ways our ancestors functioned, and at the same time, evolving into a completely new way of living.

OUR METHOD

Our method of transition into a true gifting economy, is to encourage all beings in your personal and business life, to allow for opportunities of true exchanges from the heart to occur, to release the focus on money.

The more beings that shift into giving and receiving through intention and love, the more we open up opportunities for all humans to thrive. We are making way for true abundance & oneness to prevail over scarcity and greed. When we take accountability and responsibility for the ways in which we have enabled and contributed to such a dead economy, we take back our own power. Every dollar we spend is either going towards the highest good of all, or it is going towards a black hole.

This is not about "rich" versus "poor", but about a shift in perception of what giving and receiving is. For those that have many blessings, to be able to give to another to receive that blessing, continues on the wheel of abundance. If every being was overflowing with the art of giving, the wheel of receiving would never stop! We would be in the perfect flow and ease of life, never seeking or lacking for anything. What is our resistance to giving? As humans with the EGO mind, we fear giving because we give with no intention behind it. We give IN ORDER TO RECEIVE, rather than giving and being OPEN TO RECEIVING. That is the difference.

OUR RETURN TO FREEDOM

As the human EGO grew, so did the monetization of life. Never in the history of the Earth have we had to pay to exist. Most things that are now monetized, were once freely given. Due to greed, these things became subject to money. When we look at all the ways in which our existence is now monetized, we will find an astounding list such as:

- land
- housing
- food
- water
- electricity
- clothes
- child care
- health care
- education
- goods & services

If we feel into our ancestors, we arrive at the perspective that life used to be governed by freedom. We had the freedom to roam the Earth and make a home or space where land was available. Those who built upon land, did so for the highest good. They created farms, schools, houses, factories to produce goods. Communities were tasked with taking care of its own. There was a role for each and every being in a community, and all was shared amongst them. To have one being in the community without, would ultimately fracture the whole. Compared to today, we have so many jobs and professions that truly do not serve the whole, they only serve the few. This fractures the entire consciousness.

THE ENERGY OF ONENESS

For us to truly grasp how far we have fallen from sacredness, we must understand the energy of oneness. We are all ONE consciousness, all derived from ONE Source. Therefore, to have placed some above others is a toxic programming of the mind.

Returning to the Oneness model of life is the basis of the Equal Energy Exchange Economy. To respect all beings and nature as One with ourselves, we begin to care for everyone and everything. We close the gap between "me" and "you", and it becomes we. We, as a collective, can only thrive through oneness, kindness, love, and giving. Those who seek to hoard, control or put themselves above others are a parasite to the whole.

If what we are doing is not serving the whole, then we are serving a dead energy. To serve the self only, at the expense of others, creates a dead economy. Today, we have endless amounts of goods & services which are created and monetized only for profit. Their purpose does not serve the whole, and any money that is directed at these goods creates more dead energy.

Take a look at the epidemic of fast fashion. Resources from the Earth are taken and exploited, put together in poor working conditions by employees who are similarly exploited, and then sold for cheap prices. These garments are often only worn once or twice before their quality decreases and thus they end up being thrown away or never worn again. This is a dead energy that continues to serve no higher purpose for the whole and further rapes the whole of its resources.

THE ART OF JOYFUL LIVING

An Equal Energy Exchange Economy will dissolve the need for work that is mindless and lacking in joy. We will no longer need to perform unfulfilling tasks in order to continue to exist. We will now be able to spend our moments living a joyful life.

Money has stripped us of our organic ability and urge to create, to be, to laugh, and to be in joy. We don't have the time to spend doing the things we truly love, because we are too busy working to pay for the things that are innately free. This is the insanity of the world. The irony is that where we find joy, we also find creative passion, and where we find passion, we find abundance.

If every soul on the planet was living a life in which they found joy doing what they loved, every soul would be serving the whole. When every being is serving the whole, rather than the self, the entire ecosystem naturally and organically supports the ALL. Take a look at any animal ecosystem and you will find that all animals operate under a divine intelligence. They each serve a role which supports their needs while benefitting the whole of the ecosystem. Compare that to our modern day economy and you will see that we attempted to create a false and illusionary ecosystem that is NOT alive, it is dead.

THE ART OF JOYFUL LIVING

The Equal Energy Exchange Economy will create a divine ecosystem of life, in which all needs are taken care of by the whole. Each of our roles will contribute to this divine flow.

There will be those that are guided to teach, to raise children, to grow crops, to build communities, to create beautiful art, to dance, to lead, to tend to animals, etc. We will no longer need to struggle against the natural flow of life but will once again learn to flow with it. As we return to divine equal energy exchange, we return to the divine flow of the yin and yang, the giving and receiving.

INTEGRITY WITH MONEY

The goal is not to demonize money itself, or to abolish it completely. The goal is to renew the true spirit of money, which is the energy of giving and receiving rather than taking & hoarding. It is to infuse love and intent back into our flow of money and flip it from a dead energy to a living, breathing one.

In order to change the way money functions, we must change our relationship to it. Our worth, joy, and purpose is not reflected by the amount of money we have. Abundance is a state of being. It is the heart-set that everything we need will always arrive exactly when we need it. The problem with today's relationship to money, is that it is never enough. We are always worried about the future, concerned that what we have won't be enough, or that what we need won't arrive and thus we have to find some way to force our needs to be met. This creates struggle and lack. We spend our existence working to obtain money, in order to feel we are secure, safe, happy, and successful and worthy.

INTEGRITY WITH MONEY

When we begin to realize that money is simply ONE form of exchange, but there are many other forms of exchange. Money should be seen as a form of a gift, a form of giving that is used when it is appropriate.

However, what about our love, time, effort, support, gifts, and skills? Those are more powerful forms of giving that we fail to utilize in our everyday life.

Use the power of your love and intention to be fully conscious in every exchange that you make. Look at the areas of your life in which you could dedicate more energy and love rather than just money. Look at the purchases you make and ask yourself, is this for the highest good? Will this assist me being in service to the whole? Will this truly bring me joy? If the answer is no, it is time to reflect on where we direct our energy and how this is being mirrored back to us in our lives.
